DPNA’s STORY

The story of DPNA reflects the journey and the possibility for activism and activists to be joint together in a team work and spirit towards initiating and engaging in positive change in their country. In October 2003, a group of diverse social activists, different age groups, educational, political, and social backgrounds established DPNA, a new development, nonprofit, non-governmental and secular association.

The founding team chose to struggle jointly for the rights of workers, students, women, youth and children. They believed that empowering an active civil society in Lebanon is the answer for starting the change. DPNA since its beginning promoted justice, solidarity, human rights and environmental protection and considered these principles as 4 pillars which will be guiding all interventions and actions as well as our attitudes and behaviors. Since the beginning we knew that we are part of a mosaic of actors on the local, national, regional and global levels, and therefore building strong and solid partnerships, networks and alliances was one of our targets to be impactful and we succeeded in doing that. Now DPNA is well known of its connections partnerships and networks which we value and appreciate.

In a journey of 10 years we were able with the participation of local communities, stakeholders, local partners, the private sector, and community leaders to lead the following marked projects: peace ambassador, building bridges, leadership in community development, eye on peace, youth dialogue, peace caravan, YALLA, active citizenship, youth and entrepreneurship, human rights ambassadors, youth and municipalities, citizen Lebanon, leadership pyramid, building the capacities of local NGOs, and NGOs for change.

Having Human Rights as guidance in our interventions, DPNA worked on responding to the needs of displaced families from South Lebanon in 2007-2006 and now the needs of the Syrian Refugees in Lebanon. We have built an experience in providing food security, shelter, wash, non-food items, and psychosocial support assistant based on SPHERE standards.

We work to respond to the needs of local communities on the basis of sustainable development, and we work to appreciate and increase local communities capacities and values. We dream of real citizenship under the state of law where people in Lebanon are participating actively in decision making processes at all levels. DPNA will continue to work on national, regional, and international levels to reach its vision.

BRIEF OF 2013

The story of Development for People and Nature Association (DPNA) is a growing story especially as it is on the verge of its tenth year anniversary and is currently reviewing those ten years in purpose of recognizing its strengths and weaknesses and identifying the risks and challenges as well as observing achievements, failures and lessons learned.

It is part of a story which nurtured the struggles of activists in the public matter, from municipalities and their unions, associations and networks of associations, Arab and international alliances, governmental and private sector partnership, civil society organizations, voluntary working days of participants in the programs of building bridges, active citizenship, entrepreneurship, peace education, human rights, the empowerment of municipalities, associations and individuals, paying forward our humane duty towards our Syrian guests, to finally organizing an introductory learning campaign on the subject of humanitarian response standards (Sphere), conflict resolution workshops, how to deal with conflicts and clashes of anger, relief work and support groups.

This is in addition to the emergency and relief programs for Syrian refugees, including their most basic needs to support them in reaching the minimum of standards for a decent living. Last but not least, not to mention our environmental projects and foremost coastal development and wise management of the coast, participating fully in the work of the Lebanon Eco Movement (LEM) and supporting awareness campaigns and participating in advocacy campaigns. We ought to focus as well on being proud of our work in the poor rural areas especially in Saida, building bridges with partners in various districts, provinces and communities in the Arab countries and the world.

And because change is a single network, we are honored to belong it and to be a modest part of it, in which we work together to bring about this positive change. As we come close to finishing our story of 2013, we hope to emphasize on our never-ending goal of achieving positive change.
